COPA SANTANDER LIBERTADORES

Copa Santander Libertadores is the official event of the South American Soccer Confederation (CONMEBOL), recognized for its prestige and tradition and it has been a fixture on Fox Sports en Español, with live and exclusive coverage for the last 7 years, generating phenomenal ratings for the network.

The most important club championship tournament features 38 teams from Mexico, Argentina, Brazil, Ecuador, Paraguay, Venezuela, Uruguay, Colombia, Chile, Peru and Bolivia. Headlining the roster for 2010 are Mexico's most storied teams, including InterLiga™ 2010 champions, Monterrey. This year's notable exception is that the round of 16 will showcase five Mexican teams: Monterrey, Morelia, Chivas de Guadalajara, San Luis, and Club Pachuca. Last year, the Mexican teams were unceremoniously withdrawn from the popular tournament after an initial outbreak of the deadly H1-N1 virus.

These teams are back this year and with a vengeance and ready to join their comrades in the fight for glory.
